

MEET THE TEEN TROUBLESHOOTERS

Interviews ELENI KYRIACOU Photographs DEBRA HURFORD BROWN and TOM HORTON

Once teenagers are drawn into drugs, crime or gang culture, getting them back on the right track can seem an impossible challenge. Teachers and parents – despite their best intentions – don't necessarily understand the pressures they face. But peer mentoring is a powerful tool in giving vulnerable teens a chance. It pairs them with other young people who know what it's like to be in trouble and who have come through to build happy, successful lives. We talk to three inspiring mentors >
